Odd Fellowship.

Hon. John A. Bright, Grand Master of he State Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and one of the most interesting speakers in Kansas, delivered a lecture in the Christian church, Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Inlependent Order of Odd Fellows, a society which is rebuilding itself in the city. Odd Fellowship is one of the best fraternal societies in existence. Mr. Bright spoke of the early organization of the order, and of its progress during the past century. Its record for benevolences is cieties. Its teachings are for sobriety, tion alluded to: honesty and charity. Its characteristic emblem is of the Divine origin-Friendship, Love and Truth. A Chapter on the High School Girl.

William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, who has won fame and fortune in telling what he knows about boys, seems to know something also about girls. In the course of a laudatory editorial on the High school girl graduate he submits an estimate of a class of girls of which there are all too many, possibly. At any rate, his observations, interrogatively put, are worth reading. The unequalled in the history of fraternal so- following is a specimen of the inquisi-

COULDN'T LOSE THE DOG.

An Exciting Incident in the Life of a New and Fresh Policeman on Belle Inle.

When the new policeman went to Belle Isle on duty he was as vigilant as a faithful picket in sight of the enemy's campfires. "Here," he shouted to a tall and nattily-dressed young man, who stepped jauntily toward the casino, "what do ou mean by bringing that dog here? Don't you know the law? Get him out o' here or I'll call the-er, I'll run him in."

"Got a chain to him, haven't I?" "I don't care if he was handeuffed and had goat hobbies on him. Law's law, He can't stay here." "He can't destroy any of the flowers, chase the squirrels or scare the children if I hang on to him, can he? I'll take him in my arms if there's danger," and he picked up the meek little pup.

"Get him off of here. Them's the orders I give you," and the policeman grew louder as the crowd increased. "I suppose he might chew up a bear or destroy the wolves," said the youth, sarcastically, "but I'll promise to hang on to him."

"Gi'me that dog!" as he made a grab for the frightened canine, but it was suddenly released by its master, and struck out for the standing timber. with the faithful custodian in hot pursuit. The pup circled to a bush, into which the officer fell, and was away again, the pursuer maddened to greater exertion y the shouts and cheers to the rear. Boys joined in the chase, women pitied the dog and men rolled in the grass,

"Foxy little rascal, isn't he?" as the dog dashed from a path parallel to his line of retreat and ran toward his master. "I brought him up here to lose him, but I've changed my mind. Good doggie!"—Detroit Free Press.

The delegates from Ford and Gray counties to the judicial convention at Bucklin, drove from Dodge City through the rain storm. Bucklin was reached about one o'clock. The experience through a rain storm was not a pleasant one. The delegates from Clark and Comanche had also reached Bucklin through the rain. The delegations from Mende and Kiowa counties fared better. They took passage on the Rock Island train.
